

Construction & Development Project Manager

January 3, 2018

Want to join us?

Platform offers a fun and hands-on approach to real estate development and working here is no different. We are passionate about creating value in real estate through opportunities and relationships, for our people, our partners, our customers, and our communities. We are seeking someone who shares Platform's core values and wants to develop and maximize their potential in the real estate development industry. We are looking to grow our team with the addition of a Project Manager. If you think you've got what it takes to make Platform even better, then please read on and reply to this opportunity.

The Position

With this position scheduled to start in January, the Project Manager will assist the team with managing various construction projects from due diligence to completion. Platform is active across BC with projects in the Lower Mainland, Vancouver Island, Williams Lake and Prince George. You will be actively involved in both development and construction from banging phones with contractors, to getting your boots dirty onsite. You will be the link between what gets drawn on paper to what actually gets built onsite.

What you bring to this opportunity

- You have friends and people like you
- You never give up even when the odds are against you
- You take pride in your work and don't need to be told twice
- You are at your best when working with a team
- You are a rockstar when it comes to organization
- You have either post secondary education in Building Technology, Engineering, Urban Land Economics, Project Management or experience from the School of Hard Knocks
- You have 8+ years experience

What you'll do

- You'll strive to meet your deadlines
- You'll watch your budgets like an accountant
- You'll ask smart questions and challenge the status quo
- You'll take charge and own the work that you do
- You'll spend time onsite to ensure Platform's interests are looked after

What's in it for you

- Working at a fun place to hone your craft and the opportunity to further your career
- Being part of a family that lives and breathes its core values
- You will be recognized for good work and rewarded for your efforts
- Salary commensurate with level of experience and education

Are you ready to join our team?
