

MEMORANDUM (Updated April 28, 2020)

COVID-19 and Governmental Measures in the Real Estate Sector

This memorandum is an overview of the recent governmental measures announced with respect to the Real Estate Sector in British Columbia in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. Please note that this is a very fluid situation and these measures are subject to change. We intend to update the information as the situation continues to evolve.

As of April 28, 2020, there are a variety of actual and proposed governmental measures regarding the following: 1) Tenants 2) Mortgage Payment Deferrals 3) CMHC Policies 4) Access to Credit 5) Payroll Assistance Policies 6) Construction Sites 7) Taxes and 8) Other Related Government Action.

Government and industry measures affecting the real estate sector as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic are rapidly changing and evolving and this memorandum should be reviewed in the context of its effective date of April 28, 2020.

1. TENANTS

Federal and Provincial Governments: Canadian Emergency Commercial Rent Assistance (CECRA) for Small Businesses [Last Updated April 26]

The Federal Government and Provinces have come to an agreement to implement a 75% cut in rent for small businesses affected by COVID-19. The program will provide forgivable loans to commercial property owners to cover 50% of the monthly rent payments for April, May, and June. Government will provide 50% of the rent for these months and the loans will be forgiven if the mortgaged property owner agrees to reduce their tenants' rent by at least 25% under a rent forgiveness agreement which must include a term not to evict the tenant while the agreement is in place. The tenant will be expected to cover the remaining 25% of rent.

To qualify, a small business must be paying less than $50,000 per month in rent and have temporarily ceased operations or have experienced at least a 70% drop in revenues. It is expected to be operation by mid-May.

The federal Canada Mortgage and Housing Corp. will administer and deliver the program – more details are expected to be released soon. Prime Minister Trudeau also noted that Ottawa is still looking at similar relief for bigger companies.

B.C. Provincial Government: Temporary Rental Supplement (BC-TRS) [Last Updated April 26]

The BC-TRS provides up to $500 a month in support for individual renters impacted by COVID-19. The payments are made directly to the landlords of eligible households and will provide a supplement for the months of April, May, and June 2020. A household with no dependents can receive up to $300 per month, while a household with dependents can receive up to $500.

To be eligible for the program a tenant must have a gross household income of less than $74,150 for singles and couples without dependents or $113,040 for households with dependents, and must as a result for COVID-19 be eligible for Employment Insurance, the Canada Emergency Response Benefit, or be able to provide evidence of a 25% or more reduction in household employment income, and finally be paying more than 30% of current household income towards rent. Tenants whose rent is being subsidized by another government program are not eligible for the program.

B.C. Provincial Government: Freeze on Evictions and Rent, Additional Rights and Restrictions for Landlords [Last Updated March 30]

The Province announced a series of measures to assist residential tenants and landlords. On March 30, 2020 the Province of British Columbia approved a Residential Tenancy (COVID-19) order pursuant to the state of emergency (the “Residential Tenancy Order”).

Rent Increases: If a landlord gave a notice of rent increase to a tenant before March 30 and the effective date is after March 30 or gives notice of any rent increase while the Residential Tenancy Order is in effect, the rent increase does not take effect unless the rent increase is for one or more additional occupants and authorized under the tenancy agreement by the Residential Tenancy Act. If a landlord collects a rent increase that does not comply while Residential Tenancy Order is in effect, the tenant may deduct the increase from the rent or otherwise recover the increase.

Common Areas: Landlords may restrict access to common areas in shared buildings, such as laundry rooms or games rooms to if restriction is necessary to protect the health, safety and welfare of the landlord, occupant, tenant or guest due to the COVID-19 pandemic or to comply with health orders or guidelines of the B.C. Centre for Disease Control. A landlord may not prevent or interfere with the access of a guest to a tenant’s rental unit.

Access: A landlord cannot enter a rental unit, even if the landlord gave a tenant written notice, without the consent of the tenant. If a landlord gave written notice before March 30, 2020, that notice is null and void. Landlords can only enter rental units without consent of the tenant if there is an emergency in relation to the COVID-19 pandemic and the entry is necessary to protect health, safety or welfare of the landlord, the tenant or other occupants.

Eviction Moratorium: A landlord must not give a tenant a notice to end tenancy while the Residential Tenancy Order is in effect. If a landlord gave a tenant a notice to end tenancy before March 30, then the notice to end tenancy remains valid (subject to dispute resolution) and an order of possession may be granted but enforcement to evict the tenant will be delayed until after the Residential Tenancy Order ceases to apply.

Orders of Possession: Orders of possession cannot be granted or enforced until after the Residential Tenancy Order is lifted except in exceptional circumstances, such as, the tenant has seriously jeopardized the health or safety of the landlord or another occupant, to comply with an order of a federal, British Columbia, regional or municipal government authority and it would be unreasonable to wait for the Residential Tenancy Order to no longer be in effect.

City of Vancouver: Developers Asked to Voluntarily hold off on Evictions [Last Updated March 18]

The City has asked developers to voluntarily and indefinitely hold off on evicting tenants if the eviction is for redevelopment and therefore falls under the city's tenant relocation policies.

B.C Housing: Temporary Eviction Moratorium [Last Updated March 18]

B.C. Housing has announced a temporary eviction moratorium on evictions of tenants in BC Housing subsidized and affordable housing during the COVID-19 outbreak. They ask that landlords take all circumstances into consideration before evicting someone who is threatening the life, health or safety of others or putting tenants or staff in imminent danger.

B.C. Housing has also streamlined the process for applying for rent reduction to those who have lost income as a result of COVID-19. Effective April 1, Rent-Gear-to-Income tenants subsidized through BC Housing can apply for re-calculation as a result of loss of employment income due to COVID-19.

Residential Tenancy Considerations [Last Updated April 26]

There are various implications to some of the current policies and measures put in place by the federal, provincial and municipal government on residential tenancies. The restrictions to access include that a landlord cannot enter the rental unit for open houses or to show the unit to prospective purchasers without the consent of the tenant. A tenant occupied property in B.C. can still be purchased and sold while the Residential Tenancy Order is in effect, but the Landlord cannot require the tenant to vacate the property. Legal advice should be sought if a purchase agreement requires vacant possession.

In addition, the B.C. Supreme Court has suspended its operations, and there are similar delays and suspensions in other courts and administrative tribunals. This means that during this time, it will be difficult if not impossible to enforce tenancy agreements or provisions under the residential tenancy regime on short notice. Furthermore, it is unclear at this stage whether conduct of organizations or individuals during this uncertain time will lead to civil litigation down the road.

2. MORTGAGE PAYMENT DEFERRALS

Residential Mortgage Deferrals [Last Updated April 3]

CMHC: Commercial Mortgage Deferrals [Last Updated April 3]

CMHC and the Office of the Superintendent of Real Estate in British Columbia are advocating for commercial mortgage deferrals. We understand institutions are working with commercial clients on a case by case basis and certain institutions are implementing a 3-month mortgage deferral program for all commercial clients.

3. CMHC POLICIES

CMHC: Expanding Revised Insured Mortgage Purchase Program [Last Updated March 26]

As part of the measures passed by the Federal Government in the Emergency Response Act, the government is ready to purchase up to $150 billion of insured mortgage pools through CMHC, an increase of $100 billion from the $50 billion previously announced on March 16, 2020. CMHC is also ready to expand the purchase of Canada Mortgage Bonds to a total annual issuance of up to $60 billion depending on market conditions and investor demand.

4. ACCESS TO CREDIT

Canada's largest financial institutions (BMO, CIBC, National Bank of Canada, RBC, Scotiabank, and TD Bank), as well as some credit unions like Vancity, are working with small business banking customers on a case-by-case basis to provide flexible financing solutions. According to the Department of Finance website, the below programs will roll out in the three weeks following March 27 and interested businesses should work with their current financial institutions.

Federal Government: Government Guaranteed Loan of up to $40,000 for Small and Medium Sized Businesses [Last Updated April 16]

The Federal Government announced the creation of the Canada Emergency Business Account (CEBA). Major banking institutions are to offer up to $40,000 in interest-free loans for small and not-for-profits in Canada. These loans will be guaranteed by the Federal Government. Finance Minister Bill Morneau stated in a live Q&A period that if the loan is paid back by the end of the first part of the term then up to $10,000 of the loan will be forgiven.

To qualify, these organizations will need to demonstrate they paid between $20,000 and $1.5 million in total payroll in 2019.

Federal Government: New Loan Guarantee for Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises [Last Updated April 16]

Export Development Canada (EDC) is working with financial institutions to issue new operating credit and cash flow term loans of up to $6.25 million to Small and Medium Enterprises. EDC will provide guarantees to financial institutions to open up these new lines of credit. The loans will be 80% guaranteed by EDC, to be repaid within one year.

Business Development Bank of Canada (BDC) is working with financial institutions to co-lend term loans to Small and Medium Enterprises for their operational cash flow requirements. Eligible businesses may obtain incremental credit amounts of up to $6.25 million, which will be risk-shared at 80% between the BDC and the financial institutions. Eligible businesses may obtain incremental credit amounts of up to $6.25 million through the program.

5. PAYROLL ASSISTANCE POLICIES

Federal Government: 75% Subsidy on Wages Businesses affected by COVID-19 [Last Updated April 28]

The subsidy will be available to all businesses, regardless of number of employees or size, whose revenues have decreased due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The Federal Government will subsidize up to 75% of wages on the first $58,700 of earnings per employee, for a maximum of up to $847 per week per employee. The entitlement to subsidy will be based entirely on the salary or wages actually paid to the employee.

This subsidy will be backdated to March 15, 2020 and will be provided for a twelve-week period through to June 6, 2020. The Prime Minister and Finance Minister warned there will be severe consequences for businesses caught abusing the subsidy, but no further details were provided.

To be eligible businesses must demonstrate that their revenues for each month for which they are seeking the subsidy are 30% less than the revenue in the same month in 2019. Alternatively, businesses may use the months of January and February of 2020 as reference periods to show loss due to the COVID-19 outbreak. Only a 15% reduction in revenues needs to be shown for the month of March 2020. Additionally, businesses will need to attest that they are doing everything in their power to pay the remaining 25% to their employees.

Businesses will apply on a portal on the Canada Revenue Agency website and will be required to apply monthly. Applications are now open here.

Federal Government: 10% Subsidy to Businesses who do not meet 30% Threshold to be Eligible for the 75% Subsidy [Last Updated April 14]

For employers who have not seen a loss of at least 30% revenue over the previous year, the Federal Government will provide those employers with a smaller temporary wage subsidy for a period of three months. The subsidy will be equal to 10% of remuneration paid from March 18th to June 20th, up to a maximum subsidy of $1,375 per employee and $25,000 per employer. Businesses will be able to benefit immediately from this support by reducing their remittances of income tax withheld on their employees' remuneration.

To be eligible, the employer must be an individual, partnership, non-profit, registered charity, or Canadian-controlled private corporation eligible for the small business deduction with an existing business number and payroll program with the CRA as of March 18, 2020, and pay salary or wages to an individual employed in Canada.

The business does not need to apply for the subsidy, but will instead continue deducting income tax, Canada Pension Plan (CPP) contributions, and Employment Insurance (EI) premiums from salary, wages, bonuses, or other remuneration paid employees. The employer will then calculate the amount of the subsidy themselves and then reduce their current payroll remittance of federal, provincial, or territorial income tax sent to the CRA by the amount of the subsidy. If income taxes deducted do not offset the value of the subsidy in a specific period, the employer may reduce future payroll remittances to benefit from the subsidy.

If you did not pay any salary, wages, bonuses or other remuneration to an eligible employee from March 18, 2020 to June 19, 2020, you cannot receive the subsidy.

Federal Government: Enhance Work-Sharing Program [Last Updated April 16]

The Government of Canada will also introduce enhancements to the Work-Sharing Program to help employers who are experiencing a downturn in business due to COVID-19, and their workers. These measures extend the duration of Work-Sharing agreements by an additional 38 weeks, for a total of 76 weeks. The mandatory waiting period has also been waived so that employers with a recently expired agreement may immediately apply for a new agreement, without waiting between applications and ease Recovery Plan requirements for the duration of the Work-Sharing agreement. These special measures will be effective from March 15, 2020 to March 14, 2021.

Applications may be made by employers who are experiencing a downturn in business activity related to the global outbreak of COVID-19, and have:

1. Work-Sharing agreements signed between March 15, 2020 and March 13, 2021
2. Work-Sharing agreements that began, or ended between March 15, 2020 and March 14, 2021, and
3. Work-Sharing agreements that ended between June 23, 2019, and March 14, 2020 and are in their mandatory cooling-off period

6. CONSTRUCTION SITES

B.C. Provincial Government: Guidance to Construction Sites [Last Updated March 27]

The B.C. Provincial Government has issued the following guidance to construction sites:

1. There should be no more than 50 people in the same space in any circumstances.
2. Where possible, employees should maintain a distance of two metres apart from each other.

3. Post signage that limits the number of occupants in any elevator to four people at a time.
4. Reduce in-person meetings and other gatherings and hold site meetings in open spaces or outside.
5. Increase the number of handwashing stations and post signage that identifies their location.
6. Maintain a list of employees that are currently working on sites and update this list daily.
7. All common areas and surfaces should be cleaned at the end of each day. Examples include washrooms, shared offices, common tables, desks, light switches and door handles.
8. Anyone with COVID-19-like symptoms, such as sore throat, fever, sneezing or coughing, must self-isolate at home for 10 days.

B.C. Provincial Government: 50-Person Limit does not Apply to Construction Sites [Last Updated March 17]

According to a UDI newsletter dated March 19, 2020, a senior provincial government official has contacted UDI President & CEO Anne McMullin to assure our industry and membership the 50-person limit does not apply to construction sites, and that all sites can and should remain operating.

Sites must continue to conform to Worksafe BC practices and current COVID-19 prevention protocols. That means additional handwashing stations should be made available, that workers should maintain their social distance of 1-2 metres from one another and during any on-site meetings.

In addition, the Provincial Health Officer Dr. Bonnie Henry said during the March 17, 2020 news conference, shortly after the 1:02 mark that "Construction work outside is not as much of a risk that we are concerned about...but anyone who's sick should not be going to work." "

7. TAXES

BC reducing majority of commercial property tax bills by average of 25% [Last Updated April 26]

The school tax rate for Classes 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 will be reduced by 50%. Overall, the commercial property tax bill for most businesses will be reduced by 25% on average.

The Provincial Government is also postponing the date that late payment penalties apply for commercial properties in classes 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 to October 1, 2020. This will provide additional time to pay the reduced tax rate without penalty.

The Provincial Government states that this will provide $700 million in immediate relief for business that own their property and allow commercial landlords to immediately pass savings on to their tenants in triple-net leases.

8. OTHER RELATED GOVERNMENT ACTION

Superintendent of Real Estate Issues Policy Statement 17 [Last Updated April 26]

The Superintendent of Real Estate under the Real Estate Development Marketing Act (“REDMA”) established Policy Statement 17 to temporarily extend the 9 month deadline to 12 months for the issuance of a building permit and obtaining a satisfactory financing commitment under Policy Statements 5 and 6.

Under Policy Statement 17:

- development property marketed under a disclosure statement filed under REDMA from April 17, 2020 to July 17, 2020 can be marketed for a 12-month period if the disclosure includes applicable extended dates as required by Policy Statement 17.
- development property marketed under a disclosure statement that was filed under REDMA between June 17, 2019 to April 16, 2020 can be marketed for a 12-month period if an amendment is filed and the disclosure includes applicable extended dates as required by Policy Statement 17. We understand an acknowledgment of receipt from purchasers for any amendment is sufficient to utilize Policy Statement 17.

All of the other provisions in Policy Statements 5 and 6, including the rights of a purchaser to cancel a purchase agreement after 12 months under conditions specified in Policy Statements 5 and 6, remain in effect and are unchanged.
